

Registration in the Danish National Waste Register

Pursuant to Statutory Order on the National Danish Waste Register businesses, transporting waste in Denmark (conveyors), brokers, and dealers of waste must be registered in the Danish National Waste Register (Waste Register). Conveyors, brokers and dealers of waste must be registered before they can handle waste in Denmark.

The categories

Waste conveyors

Waste conveyors are any companies that transports waste for other companies against payment. Waste conveyors do not legally assume responsibility for the treatment of the waste that they transport.

Waste dealers

Waste dealers are companies that acts as principals when buying and selling waste. This also includes companies that do not physically take possession of the waste. Waste dealers do not assume responsibility for the treatment of the waste that they buy or sell.

Waste brokers

Waste brokers are companies engaged in arranging the disposal or recovery of waste, on behalf of others, including dealers of waste, who do not physically take possession of the waste. Waste brokers do not assume responsibility for the treatment of the waste that they buy or sell.

Registration

For registration in the Waste Register, please find the log-in for foreign companies on this website. Further information about registering a company in the Waste Register can be found in the English registration guide.

At the initial registration in the Waste Register, you are required to provide information about the company you represent and pay both a registration and an annual fee. After the payment of the fees, you will receive the relevant receipts and certificates in your mail-box. Only after you have received these, will the company you represent be able to handle waste in Denmark.

An annual fee will be deducted from the payment card, which is registered in the Waste Register once a year.

The approval and registration of collection companies is limited in time and is given for 5 years

The fees shall, cf. section 25 of the Executive Order on the Danish National Waste Register and approval as collector, correspond to the actual costs incurred by the Danish Energy Agency in connection with the establishment, operation, maintenance, and administration of the Waste Register, including costs associated with fee collection and supervision of companies subject to registration. The fees are adjusted annually as per January 1st.

Registration of subcontractors

The Statutory Order on the Waste Register does not allow a registration for one conveyor of waste to be extended to subcontractors. This concerns both Danish and foreign companies. If a conveyor of waste makes an agreement with a subcontractor regarding transportation of waste, the subcontractor will be considered as a separate conveyor of waste, which requires an additional registration in the Waste Register. Hence, it is, the company actually carrying out the transportation of the waste that is legally required to be registered in the Waste Register.
